Drunken Sailors And Vodka Crazed Soldiers
Rioted For Many Hours.

PLUNDERED FOUR SPIRIT HOUSES

Were Shot Down By Their Fellow Soldiers with Machine Guns--Slaughter Was Very Large-- Quiet Restored.

Cronstadt, Nov. 10.—After an all night battle between 7,000 still loyal troops and 3,000 mutinous sailors and artillerymen, order has been partly restored.

It is estimated that 200 men were killed outright. Many wounded are in the hospitals.

Most of the mutineers have surrendered, although several hundred are still holding out in the eastern section of the town. They have thrown up barricades, but are surrounded and machine guns are posted at all the streets leading to their stronghold.

The mutineers burned the market and a group of other buildings. The fires are still glowing and light up the sky.

The outbreak started Wednesday afternoon when the sailors of the "Seventh Fort Equipe," revolted, and it is rumored, killed some of their officers. They marched out of the barracks and immediately plundered four spirit shops.

Secure Liquor and Arms.
Crazed with liquor they returned and seized their arms and then went on the rampage, firing promiscuously upon the troops and the loyal sailors. Later they were joined by a battalion of artillerymen from the fortress, which raised the total number of mutineers to 3,000.

Several regiments of troops with light machine guns were brought from St. Petersburg and Oranienbaum. They immediately attacked the mutineers, who had scattered all over the city to pillage shops and houses.

The fighting between the loyal troops and the mutineers continued all night.

When morning dawned the panic among the civilians, which had been widespread all night, increased.

Shops and houses were hastily boarded up. Hundreds of the terror-stricken inhabitants fled to the mainland by boats and steamers. As the day advanced many toughs joined in the pillage, but the workmen did not participate in it. Many of the workmen and the civilian population have either fled or are trying to flee the city, and the docks are piled high with baggage and household effects.

AN INVESTIGATION OF GREAT SECRECY

Four Investigators of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor Are in Chicago.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-MORRIS.]

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 10.—Dr. E. D. Duran, Herbert D. Brown, S. D. Schindler and F. Lawes, special investigators for the bureau of commerce and labor, have opened headquarters in this city to conduct an investigation about which much secrecy is maintained. It is rumored the Standard oil relations with the railroads will be the subject of the investigation. It is also said there will be an investigation of the alleged attempt to pack the recent rate convention. All inquiries as to the object of the officials met by reference to Mr. Garfield.

AGED LAWYER TALKS BEFORE COMMITTEE

of Advice He Gave Cam-panies.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-MORRIS.]

New York, Nov. 10.—William Barnes, Sr., of Albany, for forty years an attorney, voluntarily appeared to testify in the insurance investigation this morning. He said he had been employed by various insurance companies at different times. He told how frequently he had recommended a change in the management of the companies. In the tirade against the Equitable he declares the charges made did not change it and asserted it is still a one-man power. He is in Hughes' line insurance Co. is in Hughes' line. President Hageman admitted that the company contributed $5,000 in 1896 for the defeat of Bryan. It was also learned in the testimony today that the Metropolitan paid Andrew Hamilton a retainer fee.

Andrew Carnegie and wife have arrived in New York from Liverpool. Rev. Mr. Rainsford, pastor of the fashionable St. George's Episcopal church of New York, writes from England that he may not be able to return on account of a nervous breakdown.

The city is full of reinforcements from St. Petersburg, and others are still arriving. Order has been restored and there was no renewal of the trouble during the evening.

Searchlights from warships and torpedo boats in the harbor flashed across the waters in order to aid launches in their search for individual mutineers who are trying to escape to the mainland by boat.

The sailors say their chief grievances are poor food and clothing and an insufficient amount of liberty from barracks.

Authorities Are Alarmed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 10.—The authorities have become so alarmed at the situation in Cronstadt that the Paul regiment of the guard was dispatched to the island at 1 o'clock Friday morning.

The governor of Cronstadt telegraphed the general staff at midnight that the mutiny had been crushed; that there was no likelihood of any renewal of the revolt; that reports to the effect that members of the guard had joined the mutineers were false, and that there was no truth in the reports that the mutineers had seized the arsenal and the forts.

At this critical juncture there is no attempt made in government circles to minimize the seriousness of the mutiny, and it is admitted that if a battalion of artillerymen joined the sailors in open revolt, the mutinous spirit must have been contagious.

Fear Action of Soldiers.

It is also admitted that, while the Cossacks and the guards stood the severe test of shooting upon their fellows in another branch of the service, there is a fear that the mutiny will have a bad effect upon the morale of the troops, which already has been badly shaken by the revolutionary propaganda.

As soon as the news of the mutiny was received here the seventeenth and eighteenth equipments of sailors of the guard were locked in their barracks and the barracks were surrounded by Cossacks. The sailors were furious with rage and shouted from the windows that they were ready to join their mutinous comrades.

PERHAPS GOVERNOR MAY DECIDE TO BE IN THE STATE YET

Shooting From Madison That He Is Not Pleased with Lack of Support of Lenroot.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—Developments of the past few days at the Wisconsin capitol have thrown doubt on the strong expectation that Governor La Follette would shortly resign his executive position and prepare to go to the United States senate at the last of this month. Governor La Follette selected Speaker L. L. Lenroot of Superior as the administration candidate for governor, but the announcement of Mr. Lenroot, made three weeks ago, has not awakened the responsive chord in the state that must be hoped for if he is to develop great strength. There is no concealing this fact, and also the fact, that Lieutenant Governor Davidson, who has made no announcement, is becoming bigger every day as a gubernatorial possibility. It is known that Mr. Davidson has aspirations to be a governor by election. He himself admits it frankly and to his friends he confides the fact that as soon as he decently can do so, he probably means as soon as La Follette has placed the executive office in the hands of the Lieutenant governor. Warm friends of Davidson say the candidacy of Lenroot has fallen with a sickly thud, but it is not as bad as that. It is true, unquestionably, and the situation is exceedingly unsettled, and with Davidson assuming large proportions, and being encouraged by the factional enemies of the governor, it is said that La Follette will be compelled to remain in Wisconsin or suffer great risk of the stalwarts again becoming powerful in Wisconsin politics.

ASKS FOR AID FOR THE POOR

Guests At Lord Mayor's Dinner In London
Hear Of Extreme Distress.

CALLS ON WEALTHY TO GIVE AID

Bejeweled Women And Uniformed Men Listen To Bal-four's Touching Appeal For Help For The Needy.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-MORRIS.]

London, Nov. 10.—Prime Minister Balfour made the new lord mayor's banquet Thursday night remarkable by an appeal to the guests in behalf of the unemployed.

It is customary at these banquets, although they frequently are the occasion for making important ministerial statements, to avoid domestic and especially controversial politics. Balfour created a precedent by raising a question dealing with the suffering poor of London.

Heralded in accordance with ancient custom by the blast of silver trumpets, the premier rose at a table which was loaded with gold plate and every costly adjunct to a great banquet and in a solemn and sympathetic manner raised the skeleton at the feast.

Says Rich Must Help.

As he dealt pathetically with the misery revealed by the recent visit to him of a deputation of women and pictured the tragedy of family life broken up by want the utmost stillness fell upon the throng of gorgeously uniformed men and bejeweled women. It was Lazarus at the gate appealing to Dives through the chief guests at a rich man's table.

Balfour pointed out the difficulties in the way of remedying the misery arising from the lack of employment. He dwelt especially on the economical question of how to lighten the burden of suffering in the future. At the conclusion of his careful, sympathetic statement he told his audience that it was their duty to help.

How to Aid Deserving.
He referred to the bill the government recently passed dealing with the unemployed, which, he said, was based upon a careful system of selecting the deserving cases and avoiding the abuse of charity. He urged every man and woman present to regard it as their duty to see that adequate assistance was given through the channel of a new law to those who, by timely help, may be prevented from joining the helpless, hopeless class, which is a burden to the community and a disgrace to civilization.

Referring to foreign affairs, the prime minister remarked upon the great movement the Russians are making in the direction of freedom. He said the task before the czar and his advisers is in no way a light one, but that all Britons wished success to those who are working for ordered progress. He earnestly hoped that under the guidance of the czar and his ministers happiness would be brought to Russian millions by a movement unswayed by the horrible scenes which made lamentable its initial progress.

World Peace Is Assured.

He spoke sanguinely on the prospects of peace throughout the world. He believed the future would see no wars. Unless some nation should arise which felt it could not carry out its schemes of aggrandizement without trampling on the rights of its neighbors he did not see a prospect for any such calamity in Europe. It would be, indeed, a tragic reversal to the ancient days, he said, if Europe had again to form a coalition against any too ambitious power.

Recalling that exactly a century ago Pitt, on a similar occasion, had prophesied a long war, he said he was rejoiced to feel he might predict, so far as human foresight is possible, for Great Britain and the world a long period of peace. But, he added, a desire must be shown for peace, not only in maintaining readiness for war, but by anxiety to use all the new machinery of arbitration.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION OF THE ELECTION SCANDALS

Attorney General And District Attorney Jerome Have Taken Charge Of Affairs.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Nov. 10.—Under the direction of Attorney General Mayor, with the assistance of District Attorney Jerome, the grand jury today began the investigation of the charges of fraud in connection with the majority election. Mayor visited the criminal court building early this morning and conferred with Assistant District Attorneys Sanford and Perkins, to whom Jerome has delegated the work of prosecuting the cases and drawing up the indictments. The grand jury met at eleven o'clock and Mayor appeared immediately. Eight deputies of Superintendent of Elections Morgan, a number of policemen and about fifty other witnesses were called. It is said efforts will be made to indict some of the district leaders. W. R. Hearst has offered an additional reward of ten thousand dollars, making a total of twenty-seven thousand, for the conviction of any Tammany district leader. Alderman Haggerty was arrested on the complaint of a poll-watcher on the charge of assault and was arraigned this morning. His case was continued to December 5. A subpoena was issued for John Voorhis, president of the board of elections, to appear before the grand jury and produce for their inspection the registry books of the third election district of the twenty-sixth assembly district. It is charged that the face of the returns was changed and there was much fraudulent voting in this district. The grand jury reported this afternoon it had not yet finished and the members were told to meet again on Monday. After it adjourned it was learned that ten indictments were ordered drawn up to be returned Monday.

ONLY VARIANCE OF 15 MILLION

IN TRUE AND ASSESSED VALUES OF ROCK CO. PROPERTY.

FRANK P. STARR'S REPORT

As Supervisor of Assessments to the County Board, Presents Some Very Interesting Data.

In the fourth annual report of the supervisor of assessments, which has been issued from the press in pamphlet form and is to be submitted to the county board at its November session, beginning next Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, Frank P. Starr presents a comprehensive review of the work of the thirty-two assessors in Rock county and the exhaustive data and tabulations will be of interest to all citizens who take the trouble to examine them carefully. In his effort to obtain an equitable and uniform assessment, Mr. Starr says that he called the attention of the assessors, at the outset, to the fact that values fixed by local assessors in the past had not been a guide for the county board in equalizing the county, but that on the contrary the board had been compelled to disregard the same entirely, as the ratio of assessment to sales in the county had varied all the way from 37 to 80 per cent. Particular attention was devoted to the real-estate sales this year and in districts where they had been small in number for the year 1904, the records of 1903 and 1902 were also used in the computations. With regard to merchants' goods he states that a strong effort has been made to equalize them; in some cases the assessment has been doubled as compared with that of last year, and a general rule has been made in a majority of cases. As a rule the merchants were satisfied that they were treated fairly. There has also been a substantial rise in the value of some of the largest factories and an equalization of many of the smaller. Failure on the part of assessors to report all the plans in the county is criticised, it being given as the opinion of the writer that while Beloit is noted for its valuable instruments of the kind and its musical talent, it by no means owns half of the pianos in Rock county. In one of the concluding paragraphs of the introduction the sentiment prevailing among some of the taxpayers to the effect that the higher the assessment is, the higher will be the taxes, is taken up. Mr. Starr avers that this sentiment has no foundation, as the appropriation made by the town, city, or village for local purposes governs the local tax; the appropriation made by the county governs the state tax; and all taken together govern the amount that each property-holder shall pay. It is also stated that in no case will one pay a higher tax on a higher assessment unless he has been shifting the burden and has not paid his just proportion in the past.

Assessed and Real Values.
In the first table of statistics the total assessed value of all the real estate in the town of Rock county is given as $20,629,830 and the true value as $29,628,702. In order to arrive at the true value 400 parcels of real estate were inspected, 20 in each town, and the true values calculated, compared with the assessed values. The calculated true value for these 400 parcels was found to be $1,891,533 and the assessed value $1,286,010. The ratio of assessed value to true value is therefore .761 for the total.

THEORIES ABOUT FOOD.

Also a Few Facts on the Same Subject.

We hear much nowadays about health foods and hygienic living, about vegetarianism, and many other fads about the same line. Restaurants may be found in the larger cities where no meat, pastry or coffee is served and the food cranked in its glory, and arguments and theories galore advanced to "prove" that meat was never intended for human stomachs, and almost make us believe that our sturdy ancestors, who lived four-score years in robust health on roast beef, pork and mutton must have been grossly ignorant of the laws of health.

Our forefathers had other things to do than formulate theories about the food they ate. A warm welcome was extended to any kind, from bacon to accords.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than the vegetables or grains.

"Dr. Julius Remmon, on this subject says: "Nervous persons, people run down in health and of low vitality should eat meat and plenty of it. If the digestion is too feeble at first it may be easily corrected by the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. Two of these excellent tablets taken after dinner will digest several thousands grains of meat, eggs or other animal food in three hours, and no matter how weak the stomach may be, no trouble will be experienced if a regular practice is made of using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they supply the pepsin and diastase necessary to perfect digestion, and every form of indigestion will be overcome by their use."

That large class of people who come under the head of nervous dyspepsia should eat plenty of meat and insure its proper digestion by the daily use of a safe, harmless digestive medicine like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, composed of the natural digestive principles, pepsin and diastase, fruit acids and salts which actually perform the work of digestion. Cheap cathartic medicines, masquerading under the name of dyspepsia cures, are useless for indigestion, as they have absolutely no effect upon the actual digestion of food.

Dyspepsia in all its many forms is simply a failure of the stomach to digest food, and the sensible way to solve the riddle and cure the dyspepsia is to make daily use at meal time of a preparation like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which is endorsed to contain active digestive principles.

In the towns of Beloit, Center, and Rock, however, the ratio for the twenty parcels is .80, but in Plymouth it is as low as .45 and in Magnolia it is only .62. When this same test was carried out with 100 parcels in the cities of Beloit and Janesville, the ratio in the former was found to be .80 and in the latter .70. The true value of all real estate in the county is given at $23,388,542; the assessed value at $30,880,893; and the ratio of true to assessed at .721. Assessed valuations in cities and villages more nearly approximate the real valuations; the ratio for the former being .766 and for the latter .701. In another table the market value of real estate as calculated from prices shown in over 2,000 transfers made during a period of three years is shown to be $21,644,922—a few hundred thousand dollars higher than the total calculated from inspection, and the resulting ratio of assessed to true value is .702.

Leaf Tobacco Raised.
In the instances of properly such as livestock, vehicles, pianos and organs, bank stocks, money and accounts, merchants and manufacturers' stock, etc., the assessed values are listed and the true values are given "the same as assessed." In the case of land and improvements, however, the 5,545 acres in cities and villages and the 441,287 in the towns, making an aggregate of 446,832, are listed as assessed at $21,114,388 or $47.25 an acre, while the computed true value is $20,201,118 or $45.58 an acre. City and village lots and improvements are assessed at $15,710,055 and the true value given as $21,743,804. Tobacco is assessed at $32,273 and the true value given as $452,361. The total assessed value of real and personal property in the county as assessed, is given as $43,479,633; and the total computed true value as $58,818,839.50.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY HELD ITS MEETING

Successor to the Late James Sutherland of This City Was Elected.

The State Historical society's fifty-third annual meeting was held in Madison yesterday and for the first time in its history divided into two sessions, afternoon and evening. The business meeting was held in the lecture room of the state historical library building. Treasurer L. S. Hanks made his annual report, showing that the society's private funds amount to $22,405.00, the sum of $1,261.65 for the year 1905. Income from these funds is used to help out the state appropriation. Allusions are made to the Joliet-Marquette monument at Portage and Wisconsin towns having historic sites are urged to follow suit. The recent organization of the new Sauk county historical society, an auxiliary of the state society, was fittingly welcomed. The following curators were elected: For term ending at annual meeting in 1906: To succeed George Rayner (resigned), of Madison, Nils P. Haugen, of Madison; to succeed James Sutherland (deceased), of Janesville, Maj. F. W. Oakley of Madison. For term ending at annual meeting in 1908: Prof. Rasmus B. Anderson, Emil Bransch, Charles N. Brown, George B. Burrows, Frederick K. Conover, Esq., Alfred A. Jackson, Burr W. Jones, John Luchsinger, the Most Rev. S. G. Messmer, J. Howard Palmer, Prof. John B. Parkinson, N. B. Van Slyke. At a meeting of the executive committee, B. F. McMillan, of McMillan, was elected a vice president to succeed James Sutherland, deceased. The other officers held over until the triennial election in 1907.

The evening meeting of the society was held in the south hall of the museum. President William Ward Wright, of Milwaukee, opened with a brief address, reviewing the needs of the society. The first paper of the evening was by Arthur Courtenay Neville, president of the Green Bay historical society, on "Historic sites in and around Green Bay." The next paper was by Henry Campbell, managing editor of the Milwaukee Journal, who is just completing a four volume history of Wisconsin. Mr. Campbell's topic was "Duluth, the fur trader."

Henry Legler, secretary of the Wisconsin free library commission, in his paper on "Printed narratives of early Wisconsin travelers prior to 1800," traced the routes of the early explorers and Jesuit missionaries and related the story of the vicissitudes that befell many of the manuscripts prior to the time that they found their way to the printing office. Dr. John Bell Sanborn, of Madison, closed the exercises with a paper on the famous Hubbell impeachment case in 1852—the only impeachment in the history of Wisconsin.

DESPERATE CROOKS ARRESTED AT PEORIA

Thought They Were Janesville Men,
But Clue Proved To Be False One.

Down in Peoria, Illinois, the police have in custody two of the smoothest "con" men and general crooks that have been arrested for some time past. Indirectly they were credited to Janesville, as complete samples of the Lewis Knitting Company of this city were found in their possession and they were passing as accredited agents of the Janesville concern. Inquiries at the Lewis factory made by Peoria officers revealed that the men were not known here and that the samples must have been obtained through theft, as no one of the names given had ever been sent samples. The men are being held in Peoria in the hopes they can be identified for some big game, as the cases against them by the Peoria police are merely trying to "kite" forged checks.

MADISON JEWS HAVE BEGUN THE WORK OF OF RAISING A FUND

Will Do What They Can to Aid Financially the Oppressed of Their Nation.

Madison Jews will raise immediate funds for the relief of the untold sufferings of their racial brethren who have been subjected to horrible butchery and persecution in Russia.

A telegram of appeal in this regard was received yesterday from New York by one of the prominent Jews of Madison, coming from the prominent banker of New York, Jacob H. Schiff, as follows:

"On behalf of the national committee for the relief of the sufferers by Russian massacres, of which I have been appointed treasurer, we urge you and your associates to call a meeting of the Jewish community to form a branch committee and collect immediate funds. The necessities are very great and conditions appalling."

"JACOB H. SCHIFF."

Similar telegrams have been sent all over America and it is hoped with some assurance that the response will be as prompt and generous as the necessities are great. Already action has been taken to provide for the immediate transmission of funds from this city and neighborhood. J. W. Hobbs, president, and cashier of the Capital City bank, has consented to act as treasurer here, and will receive and transmit to the committee in New York all contributions left with him.

A meeting will be held as soon as arrangements can be made, and the branch committee suggested by Mr. Schiff will be constituted and begin the systematic work of raising funds for this purpose. The appeal is not confined to Jews, but is extended to any whose hearts incline them to assist in bringing speedy relief to the thousands of persecuted and suffering ones in Russia.

RED JACKET Lead and Zinc Company

Mines are located between Montford and Highland in Iowa county, Wisconsin. The property consists of 157 acres, most of which is covered with old surface workings. They have been worked since 1836 in a small way by numerous lancers and have yielded from the upper runs of ore a steady yearly production of lead, pyrite and blackjack. But they have never been mined below water. In one of the old shafts the present lancers have recently struck a fine sheet of lead and jack and have exposed the sheet for over sixty feet.

There is an abundance of good mining timber on the ground which will effect a material saving to the company. The Red Jacket Lead and Zinc Company has been organized under the laws of the state of Wisconsin with a capital stock of $55,000, divided into 55,000 shares of $1 each. The object of this company is to purchase these lands and the mines on them and to extinguish all mining rights or leases and the option of purchase now outstanding against the land free and clear of all incumbrances and shall have no royalty to pay for the mineral taken from it. On account of the company owning the land there will be no royalty to pay. This means a saving of ten to fifteen per cent on the output. $65,000 will be used for the purchase of the land and mines located thereon and extinguish all mining rights or leases. $20,000 in cash shall remain in the treasury of the company to be used to install a first-class mill, and to carry on its development work we invite parties to go and examine this valuable property and secure stock at $1 per share. Invest your money in Red Jacket Lead and Zinc Mines. Samples of ore from the Red Jacket Lead and Zinc Mines may be seen at the following window: Hall & Sayles' Jewelry Store, New Myers Hotel, Connors' Restaurant.

— FORTY YEARS AGO —

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, November 10, 1865.—Severe Accident.—A painful accident occurred on the corner of Main and Court streets this morning, by which Mrs. Wilson was very severely injured. She was stopping for the time being in the family of Mr. Wells, on Main street, and, in company with a little daughter of Mr. W., had started to come up town, when a steer which was being driven along the street, led by the red cloak of the little one, made a rush at them, knocking them down, and making a number of passes at them before they could be rescued. Mrs. Wilson shielded the child at her own peril, and while she was quite severely injured, the little one escaped entirely. The injured woman was first taken to the school room of Mrs. Robinson and afterwards removed to the residence of Mr. Wells. Her injuries, though serious, are not fatal. The animal which made the assault was killed on the spot.

An Intelligent Party.—In the town of Vienna, in this county, there were no democratic tickets and there were no democrats who could remember the names of any candidate on their State ticket, except Hobart.—Madison Journal.

A much more intelligent party can be found in the town of Harmony in this county, where no democratic tickets were wanted and where none were voted. The Union ticket got 80 and the opposition 20. The advocates of "the white man's government" ought to send a missionary up to Harmony. That town, politically, is correctly named.

The Result in Rock County.—We are not yet able to give the exact vote of this county, but from what has already been received, we do not estimate the majority for the Union ticket at over 2,000. The majority for suffrage is not more than 1,000.

The rank of Brigadier General by brevet, for gallant and efficient services, has been conferred upon Col. W. P. Lyon, of the 13th Wisconsin, Col. E. T. Sprague of the 42d, (formerly adjutant of the 8th), Col. Amasa Cobb of the 43d (formerly of the 5th), and Col. Samuel Fallows of the 49th.

School Superintendent in the First District.—The returns from the towns comprising the first district, indicate the election of T. F. Foot, (Unionist), for school superintendent, over Mr. Richards, the regular nominee. Mr. Foot is captain of the 13th regiment and is now in Texas.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

The coming of the great Daily Theatre production "San Toy," under the personal direction of Mr. John C. Fischer, has aroused more than ordinary interest in theatrical circles. The company is now enjoying its fourth successful year, and it is well named as being the greatest of all international musical successes. The company closed its last year's season at Daily's Theatre, New York, playing to standing room only, and the press of Greater New York gave it unstinted praise as being brighter and fresher than ever. The regular Daily Theatre

Family" was selected for each person's natural ability to assume the various characters assigned to them, with the result one of the best drilled organizations on the road to-day. Clever comedians, pretty girls and a whole ensemble well high perfect in every way. The costuming, electrical and stage effects are correct in every detail. The engagement of "My Wife's Family" should prove to be an artistic and financial success.

Mabel Hill is the latest victim of that cynical and among chorus girls

Manager Myers having been fortunate in securing the three act play, "My Wife's Family," the combined work of Hal Stephens and Harry Linson, profile and successful writers of that style of entertainment. This merry concoction of fun, music and amusing frivolity, was created by warm praise wherever presented last season, as the jolliest, cleanest and liveliest of comedies seen in the musical world, a constant creator of laughter, that is simply irresistible. The comedy appeals to all that is refined, the book is not of the forced kind, while the musical numbers are all of the jingling whistling order. The company presenting "My Wife's

FASHION NOTES

Veils and Neckwear.—All the evening hats favor the wearing of some kind of neckwear, especially fur hats. This is due to the fact that most of the fashionable furs come in sets including jacket, muff, boa, and hat. The milliners, however, make it a point to see that the hat and neckwear are in close sympathy with each other where one is not the fortunate possessor of an entire set.

The dainty for stoles with hats lined with folds of snowy chiffon make a picture to inspire the artist. Linen hat brims are a conspicuous feature of the season's millinery. Sometimes the linings are of velvet, felt and satin but for evening hats it is invariably of chiffon. This fashion is generally to be encouraged as it is both becoming and effective.

Quite a charming hat of mauve panne velvet is lined with white chiffon, the lining being shirred instead of laid in folds. The brim is a round affair and the low sunken crown is bordered with a wreath of small rosebuds flushed with lace put on in ruffled effect. Now roses do not grow, as we know, in wreaths finished with lace ruffles, but certainly for picture-bookness, nothing exceeds this idea, which is being worked for all it is worth upon some of the new hats. The brim rolls more and more until at the back it turned inside out completely, with long plumes waving over toward the front.

Smart women are making many concessions to veils, which are exceedingly smart, showing a novelty of design which is more charming to the eye than beneficial to the sight. Some are embroidered with designs so large that they really mar the vision; others, however, display the daintiest of figures which take the form of forget-me-nots and blooms quite as minute. The small hats are better adapted to veils, but the veil draped hat is rather too spectacular for the conservative woman. The approved way of wearing the veil is to have it fastened under the hat, but the mass of chiffon falling down the back is never artistic and does not serve its purpose well.

Colored veils are quite as smart as the plain black and white meshes, and it is considered the chicest of chic ideas to have the veil match the color of the hat, be it prime, bronze, apricot, moutarde or any other color; and the hat in nearly every instance matches the gown.

The most expensive novelty is the lace veil, and, incidentally, it is the smartest. Its cost is considerably lessened when it is considered that it will be fresh and dainty months after the net designs have succumbed to the ravages of age. Its favorite decorations are chenille dots and velvet pastilles, which are never large enough to overcast the real design of the lace.

This year there is any number of novelties in stoles of chiffon and net as well as fur, while ostrich and coque feathers have lost none of their popularity. The new features of these, if they can justly be called new, is that they are shown in more delicate colorings than before.

White furs are to be very much in vogue this year, not only for dressy occasions when ermine is regal, but for morning wear with smart tailored costumes. Little is said about squirrel in the new craze for caracul, and a new salting fur, closely resembling moire, but it is nevertheless quite smart.

Everywhere the most beautiful sets are shown in dark brown, green and gray for evening, consisting of muff, boa and sometimes the hat. They are very perishable, succumbing to the least dampness in the atmosphere and aside from the original cost which is extremely high, must constantly be recouped if they are to present an ultra-chic appearance. Delicate shades of rose, canary, blue and mauve are also shown, matching handsome frocks of chiffon and cloth. Sometimes the feathers are shaded at the tips, evolving the most delightful color schemes.

The Truth About Stoves

By the Largest Makers of Stoves and Ranges in the World

MANY people have been deceived in believing that stoves were cheap because of a low price, when experience proves them the most expensive. A small price may be paid for a stove which looks attractive in the catalogue, which has been described as "perfect," but it is liable to prove a very expensive purchase, for ten chances to one, trouble will arise from this stove in a month's time—it may not heat or cook properly, or it may consume fuel like a locomotive. Then the material in the stove itself may wear so poorly that at the end of a year or so it will have to be replaced. You never get something for nothing in this world, and when you pay a small price for a stove, that price must cover the cost of material and labor, and include a reasonable profit, consequently inferior cast-iron and steel, and the cheapest and most inexperienced labor, must go into this seemingly low-priced stove.

Expert Stove Advice Free. We have opened an "Advice Department," in charge of an expert stove man, simply to tell the people absolutely free of cost, all about stoves. And this expert will honestly advise you just which stove or range will best suit your needs. We also want those who have lost money on the seemingly inexpensive stove, to let us tell them how they can save money by buying a "Garland," even if the first cost is a little more than that of the cheap and unsatisfactory stove.

We want them to let us tell them about the advantages of "Garland" Stoves and Ranges, which always prove a good investment.

We make a "Garland" to fit every stove need, and have books accurately describing the different kinds. We could not afford to open this "Advice Department" or send out the valuable literature we do, free of charge, if "Garland" Stoves and Ranges were not distinctly superior to other makes; if the magnitude of our operations did not make it possible for us to sell them at reasonable prices, and if our reputation and methods of doing business did not insure absolute satisfaction.

If you are considering the purchase of a stove or range, cut out this coupon, check (this way) the kind of stove you are interested in, and let us tell you, and you will promptly receive our Expert Advice, as to just which stove is best suited to your needs, and why, and our literature, free of charge.

"A lion is known by his paw"
—seeing only its paw you could not be persuaded that it was a coyote or jack-rabbit. A store is known by its ads. A man who has never been in this city would be able to identify, unerringly, the enterprising and important stores simply from looking over the ads in this newspaper.

Reform is in the air.

The boss must go to Washington and direct the senate.

There will be something doing in the state when the coast is clear for action.

If you want an office under the primary law sacrifice modesty and ask for it.

It will require more than the support of the governor to nominate successful state candidates in 1906.

The primary law is supposed to be the people's law. It remains to be seen whether a dictator can control it.

What a relief it will be to the average citizen to walk through the capital at Madison without exciting suspicion.

It's an even bet that Congressman Cooper won't name the postmasters in his district until about the time Congress adjourns. He possesses the happy faculty of courting trouble by delay.

If Davidson wants to run for governor, let him run, and there's no objection to Lenroot, Stout, McGilivray, Connors and half a dozen more, if prompted by the same laudable ambition. This is a free country, or will be after the boss goes to the senate.

The railroads of the country are evidently not very much disturbed over the much discussed rate regulation. They are spending money freely for improved equipment in an effort to meet the demands of business. Congress can ill afford to handicap this great industry which is doing so much for the development of the nation.

Turn the rascals out, was the slogan of the campaign. It was the people's day and the independent voter was largely it. Party lines were ignored and in the flush of victory party allegiances are lightly regarded, but parties will continue to exist, for they are vital to the life of the republic, and the man who attempts to destroy them is a menace to the welfare of the nation.

Parties, when purified, are purified from within. Drastic measures are sometimes necessary but permanent desertion is seldom warranted. The republican party is the only party of stability. It will continue to live and bless the nation as it has in the past. Corruption will be rebuked and eliminated without serious consequences. The party has not yet fulfilled its destiny.

THE GAME OF FOOTBALL.

The fact is generally recognized that the game of football stands at the head of the list in college athletic sports, while it monopolizes to large extent the field of athletics in academies and high schools.

That the game as played today is largely of the rough-house order, is also a well-established fact, and injury to life and limb is so common, that President Roosevelt has interested himself to the extent of holding a conference with half a dozen college athletic directors, with a view to eliminating from the game many objectionable features.

A high school boy was killed in a game at Oak Park last week and the sport is no longer popular in that vicinity. A similar accident happened at Saint John's School, Manlius, New York, and the students were so aroused that they took the matter in hand and adopted the following resolutions:

"To whomsoever these presents shall come, greeting:

"Resolved: That we, the students of Saint John's school at Manlius, drop the game of football after playing out the season, except among ourselves on our own grounds:

"That football as it is now played is more for college than for prep school;

"That professional and fake scholarships are largely responsible for the unnecessary roughness, slugging and demoralizing influences of an otherwise noble game;

"That we endorse President Roosevelt's efforts to cleanse the game.

"Adopted this nineteenth day of October, nineteen hundred and five.

"Students of St. John's School, Manlius, New York."

These resolutions are being sent out broadcast over the country with a view to creating sentiment which will result in similar action by other schools. The movement is in the right direction and should be encouraged.

The game of football, when properly played, is an educator but when it becomes a slugging match, it is more demoralizing than the prize ring, and the parents who furnish the boys to take part in the melee have a right to complain and demand reform methods.

THE ARMY CANTEEN.

The Medical Record, the leading journal of this class, and recognized as authority by the physicians of the country, handles the army canteen question without gloves. The Record says:

"With each recurring autumn, when the annual reports of the Department Commanders of the Army are made, testimony accumulates in support of the moral value of the post exchange, or canteen, as it is usually called. It is now nearly five years since the efforts of the misguided ladies, who do so much to promote vice through their endeavor to make virtue compulsory, succeeded in bringing about an act of Congress closing the canteens. The policy of abolition has, therefore, prevailed for a sufficiently long period of time to warrant the passing of judgment upon it as a moral force in the army, and the unanimous judgment of those best fitted by observation and experience to express an opinion, is that the closing of the post exchanges has had the most deplorable results. Drunkenness, gambling, sexual immorality, with the resultant venereal disease, infractions of discipline, desertions, and insanity, have all increased since the sale of beer and light wines in the post exchange was forbidden, by law, and the causal relation of the closure of the canteen to the loss of moral tone among the soldiers is undeniable. The testimony of every division and department commander in the army is all one way.

"In his report just published, Gen. Grant says that fully 75 per cent of the 12,042 summary court-martial trials of enlisted men in the department of the East, during the year, were due to the use of bad liquor, dispensed to our soldiers by persons who conduct dens of vice in the vicinity of military posts. These depraved creatures use every device in their power to induce the soldiers to patronize their places, where those who yield to temptations are frequently drugged and robbed.

"Gen. Wint, commanding the department of the Missouri, speaking of the desertions, which furnish about one-third of the general court-martial trials, says that a great majority of them trace their history to drunkenness, induced by the environment of the low dives and vicious gambling and drinking resorts infesting the neighborhood of most of the posts.

"The evil is even worse in the Philippines, where Gen. Carter, of the department of the Visayas, has shown most clearly that the hundreds of soldiers who are being brought home insane from the islands are the victims of the abolition of the canteen. Instead of taking pure beer in moderation at the post exchange, they are led by the abolition of the canteen to make use of the poisonous native drinks.

"Another evil of the abolition of the canteen is that the soldier is cheated and robbed of his earnings in the gambling dens, grogeries, and brothels, which have sprung up around all the army posts of any size. The Paymaster-General of the army reported last year that since the abolition of the canteen the amount of money deposited with the paymaster's office by the enlisted men, had decreased by nearly two million dollars.

"The Seaman prize of the Association of Military Surgeons, awarded annually for the best essay on 'The Prevention of Disease in the Army and the Best Method of Accomplishing that Result' was given this year to Major Jefferson Randolph Kean, Surgeon, U. S. A., for a paper in which he made a strong plea for the re-establishment of the canteen at army posts. He showed by statistics that since the canteen was abolished all kinds of diseases traceable to dissipation have increased in the regular army. The reason, he said, is that low grogeries have sprung up around army posts where soldiers drink to excess and then fall victims of disease.

"In contrast to these pictures, all exactly alike, of the fearful evils which have followed the abolition of the canteen feature of the post exchange, is the positive testimony of the good the canteen did when it was permitted to exist. This is found in the statement of Gen. Jesse M. Lee, in his annual report, in which he says that 'a well-regulated canteen, where beer and light wines may be sold, conserves discipline, lessens absenteeism, and to that extent tends to reduce desertion.'

"The good, but awfully mistaken women, who have brought this calamity upon our soldiers, are unable to deny the damning facts which the generals of the army bring forward each year in their official reports, but still attempt to justify their action by the wicked old shibboleth, 'no compromise with vice.' Better, they say, that thousands of young men in the army should be ruined, their souls debauched, and their bodies diseased, than that a Christian State should sanction the sale of beer and tobacco. One of their pet arguments is that the soldier should be forbidden to drink.

"Railways and other great corporations, they say, have made a rule that their employees shall be total abstainers, and the army, they think, can do the same. They forget that among the employees of corporations only those who hold positions of great responsibility, such as the switchmen, train dispatchers, and locomotive engineers, are compelled to abstain from the use of alcohol, and so that men seek employment on the railways and in the various industrial occupations, but that the army seeks the recruit. If total abstinence was demanded of the soldier there would have to be some other system than recruiting devised to keep up the strength of the army.

"It is practically certain that a bill will be introduced in congress this coming winter to restore the canteen, and there is every hope that it will pass, despite the opposition of the curious alliance of the whiskey dealers and the ladies of the W. C. T. U. These are the only enemies of the enlisted men in the army, so far as we know, while on the side of morality are all the officers of the line, the chaplains, and the members of the medical corps, the Women's Army and Navy League, and all who believe in persuasion rather than compulsion as an efficient moral force."

The Gazette has long maintained that the law which abolished the army canteen was a mistake and that the foolish sentiment which demanded it was impractical in the extreme.

MORTUARY NEWS

Timothy Kelley
A son of the late Timothy Kelley, who was accidentally asphyxiated in the Empire hotel Wednesday night, arrived in the city from Brodhead yesterday and took charge of his father's remains. They were shipped home last evening. The deceased was fifty years old and left a wife and three children.

The Apollo Club
The Mason & Hamlin grand piano to be presented next Monday night by some fifty citizens of Janesville to the Apollo Club has arrived and will be placed in Library Hall tomorrow. The makers write that it is the finest toned instrument they have ever produced. The reception and concert Monday night in honor of the donors will be one of the most charming events the city has known for years. Sixteen singers, pianists and violinists from other cities will participate. Separate cloak-rooms are being fitted up for men and women, amply provided with hooks for wraps, hats and coats. The ladies are requested to remove their hats, as they very seriously obstruct the view of the stage. The Misses Josephine Treat, Bessie Burch, Ruth Charlton, Pearl Peters and Constance Pember have been appointed ushers. The secretary of the club will be at Library Hall half an hour in advance to receive the applications of those who desire to join the club. The concert will begin at eight.

PRESS COMMENT.

Value Entirely Negative

A Hanging Never Regretted.
Chicago Tribune: Chicago willingly embraces every proper opportunity to show that it has no apologies to offer for having hanged the anarchists.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Joseph H. Choate tells us we are working too hard and too fast and doing too much. Perhaps we are, and yet the poorhouse doesn't seem so very far away over the hill.

Chicago News. It is really shocking to learn that football players are getting their board and tuition free. When a man accepts remuneration of that sort he is still an amateur, but let him take a couple of dollars and become at once a rank professional.

Chivalry at Cassville
Lancaster Herald: As the team left town eggs of Cassville condition were thrown at the Players of the Lancaster team. Practically the only noble act of the Cassville boys was to neglect throwing eggs at the ladies of the Lancaster faculty.

Bad For One Particular Boss.
Exchange: "It is a bad year for the boss," The Chicago News observes. And it adds: "Let us hope that next year will be worse." Seen that in Wisconsin the voters will do the nominating, it looks very much as if next year will be considerably worse for the "boss" with two jobs.

Superior Telegram: A northern Minnesota newspaper has the regular course of business figured down to a nicety. It says: "What became of the timber on the state lands around us? There seems to be nothing left but the swamps, and not much of a record to show the state ever got anything for it. We suppose a whole lot of timber stealers will want to be governor next year."

No Typewriter Is Worth $100.

Madison Journal: The Jewett typewriter concern of Des Moines is on the rocks. Here you have a successful trust. Every one knows that $100 is a wicked price for these little devices made in great numbers. It is said they can be put together for $20 each. But the price holds year after year.

Looks Like Good Solution.

Exchange: The Comanche Indians in Oklahoma have a law that the buck who runs away with another man's squaw forfeits all his property to the aggrieved husband. The Washington Post thinks that a law like that in New York might end all this talk about the solution of the divorce problem.

Not Subject To Sulks.

Green Bay Gazette: Lieutenant Governor Davidson denies the rumor that he would not serve out the expired term of Governor La Follette provided the latter resigns to accept the senatorship. Davidson is not the man to indulge in a fit of sulks, even if things are not running exactly to his liking.

Not Likely To Be Repeated.
Grantsburg Journal: Will any piece of legislation put upon the statute books by the last legislature produce more wholesome, genuine good to society than the St. Louis 300 feet anti-saloon law? The law provides that after the year 1908, no saloon or brewery shall be located nearer than 300 feet from a school house. The founder, dreamer of the sponsor of this law will be more than realized in the good it will do for sobriety and decency.

Time To Begin In The Shopping.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The near approach of Christmas is realized when one stops to consider that here are only 35 buying days remaining before that date. Wise shoppers will therefore soon be laying plans, if they have not already done so, for their purchases. The experience of the last few years has taught shoppers the advantages of making purchases early. The last two or three weeks preceding Christmas finds the stores crowded, the clerks over-worked and the stocks more or less sorted over. It takes more time to do a given amount of shopping late in the season than early and, as a rule, more difficulty is experienced in finding articles that suit. Merchants have been catering more and more each year to the early Christmas trade and the shoppers who begin making their selections some weeks in advance find many things in their favor.

A General Yearning Accounted For
Stoughton Courier: The desire to hold office is the natural manifestation of man's inclination to take life easy, and at the same time enjoy the companionship of liberal associates, who like himself, are taking their wits to circumvent the old declaration that man must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. The idea of the office seeking the man may have found an abiding place somewhere, but it is altogether too Utopian for this country and these times.

DUNWIDDIE WILL BE A CANDIDATE

PRESENT CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY.

GRIMM OF JEFFERSON, OUT

This With the Dark Horse from Green County and Sale and Fifield, Makes Five.

While the meeting of the members of the Rock County Bar association yesterday afternoon endorsed Judge Sale by a majority of the votes of the members present as their candidate for the circuit judgeship of the twelfth judicial district, the situation has by no means become clarified. It was the idea of the gentlemen who proposed the meeting of the bar associations of Green, Jefferson and Rock counties to secure, if possible, some united sentiment as to the candidate for the office. The meeting was a failure as regards securing the sentiment of Green county, as that association refused to take any part in the gathering. Jefferson county was represented by one man and it now develops that the lawyers of that county have a candidate of their own. It is also reported that Green county has a candidate of its own selection, making the fight not only between the counties themselves but also a three-cornered fight in Rock county.

Judge Dunwiddie Will Run
Judge Dunwiddie, the present judge of the circuit, announces that he is a candidate for re-election. When asked this morning regarding his position at the present time, he said: "In answer to the many inquiries of friends regarding my possible candidacy for the nomination of Judge of the twelfth judicial district, I desire to thank them for their interest and support and to state that I will offer my name as a candidate for this office at the coming election, leaving my acceptance or rejection to the voters of the district." With Judge Sale's acceptance of the candidacy as offered to him by the county bar association and the probability that Judge Fifield will also be a candidate, Rock county has a pretty three-cornered fight on its hands.

Judge Grimm Is Out
In the Milwaukee Sentinel this morning the candidacy of Judge Grimm of Jefferson is announced. Judge Grimm was a candidate for appointment to the office at the time of the death of the late Judge Bennett. The Sentinel dispatch states that he will surely be a candidate, but that the association as an association is utterly opposed to the plan of having the lawyers decide who shall be the candidate, but believe it should be left to the people. This sentiment has also been expressed by prominent Green county attorneys and is given as their reason for not attending the bar association meeting here yesterday. Should this idea gain prevalence it might work to the serious disadvantage of Judge Sale in his candidacy.

Four or Five Are Out

With Judge Dunwiddie, Judge Sale and Judge Fifield of Janesville, Judge Grimm of Jefferson and a possible Green county candidate, the chances for the election of either Judge Grimm or the Green county candidate are extremely good. Rock county will be split between the three local candidates, while some dissatisfied voters will go either to the Green or Jefferson county candidate, making the election of one of these two a possibility.

Twenty Days for Nash: Thomas Nash, who neglected to take out a pledge not to drink any more, after promising the court he would do so as a condition of his release, continued with the cup again last evening and was brought before Judge Fifield this morning. He was given the alternative of paying a fine of $5 and costs or going to jail for twenty days, and he went to jail.

Gloves Stolen From Car: City Marshal Appleby was informed this morning that a car that came in from the west over the St. Paul and left near the brickyards, over a mile from the city, last evening, had been broken into and a quantity of gloves stolen. When he visited the scene he found that but a few of the boxes had been opened and only part of their contents taken. Valuable gauntlet gloves in small boxes for each pair were left undisturbed. The consignment was shipped from Beloit, but by some mistake mis-carried. The bill of consignment had not been forwarded or particulars regarding the extent of the loss obtained at three this afternoon. It is not even certain that the car was not broken into before it reached Janesville.

WHEN CARP GOT IN SWAMPS OHIOANS THREW UP SPONGE

High Water at Lake Koshkonong Has Prevented Any Operations With Net This Year.

There appears to be no prospect of a resumption of fishing operations on the part of the C. K. Freer people of Sandusky, Ohio, at Lake Koshkonong. H. L. Skavlem, who is in the city to attend the meeting of the equalization committee of the county board, says that an attempt was made to work the nets during the summer but that the water from two to three feet higher than usual, the carp had evidently scattered into the swamps where it was impossible to get them. When the nets yielded no adequate returns the men departed and it is thought unlikely that they will return this winter.

Letter to Dr. H. J. Barry, Janesville, Wis.
Dear Sir: For your house, no matter what the matter with it—it isn't a human you know—a prescription: Devote lead-and-zinc. Apply with a brush, from one to three coats—get a painter to do it.

Seven state chemists know all about Devote; have analyzed it; report it pure; will analyze it occasionally. They buy it in the open market wherever they like.

You know what the color and dryer are for; do you know what the lead-and-zinc and oil are for? Not being a painter, you may not choose to know; but we'll tell you.

Lead-and-zinc and oil combine to form a rubbery waterproof coat to keep out dampness. That's the whole business.

The oil would do it alone; lead-and-zinc would do it without the oil; but the three together are best, because they wear best.

We say to you, "get a painter," as we say to him "get a doctor"—every man to his trade. Can't all be painters and doctors; don't want to.

You will be more successful in a prosperous looking house; and he in good health. Take good care of one another.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devote & Co.

WINTER ECZEMA SKIN HARD AND DRY

Some skin diseases are active in Summer, while others wait until cold weather to manifest themselves. Winter Eczema sleeps in the system through the long hot months, and gives no sign of its presence; but at the coming of Winter the trouble asserts itself and it becomes one of the most painful and distressing of all skin diseases. The blood is filled with poisonous acids which seem to be excited by the cold; and as these are thrown off through the pores and glands, the skin cracks and bleeds, the flesh becomes hot and feverish and the itching intense. The natural oils which keep the skin soft and pliant are dried up by the cold, bleak winds, causing it to become hard and dry, giving it that shiny, leathery appearance, characteristic of the disease. The head, face, hands and feet are the usual points of attack, though other parts of the body may be affected. So painful and distressing is the trouble that the sufferer constantly "doctors" and treats it trying to get relief. Soothing washes, medicated ointments and salves are used, but aside from giving temporary relief they do no good. The cause is poisonous acids in the blood, and these must be removed before a cure can be effected. The only cure for Winter Eczema is S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers. It cleanses the entire blood supply of the acid poisons and sends a fresh, healthy stream to the diseased skin, healing and softening it and curing the painful, itching eruptions. S. S. S. enters the blood and purifies it of all waste and foreign matter, and cures Winter Eczema—or Tetter as it is sometimes called—safely as well as surely; besides it does not contain any harmful mineral to derange or damage any part of the system. The greatest tailor in America after looking over a Clothcraft suit and a Clothcraft overcoat brought to him for examination by one of his patrons, stated in positive terms that they were superior to any other ready-made garments he had ever seen.

He went even farther than that, saying that Clothcraft garments were as correct and as well-tailored as the best work of many well-known metropolitan tailors.

Clothcraft ideas; Clothcraft devices and Clothcraft machines have provided so many short cuts—accomplished such material savings—in the mechanical processes of clothes-building, that the Clothcrafters are able to turn out strictly all-wool clothing exclusively designed and beautifully tailored at prices within the reach of nearly everybody.

Probably you need an overcoat. The season's vogue calls for the double or single-breasted, belted style as shown in the illustrations. Both are popular.

They are beautifully hung—and made in black, oxford, fancy chevrons, Scotch and cassimeres; ranging in price from $12 to $25.

HEALTH, BEAUTY

Judith of the Plains

—By—
MARIE MANNING,
Author of "Lord Allingham, Bankrupt"

Copyright, 1905, by Harper & Brothers

Judith's anxiety awoke in Kitty a new consciousness. What was she to him that at the possibility of harm, a fear not shared by Kitty, she should throw off a reserve that every line of her face pronounced habitual? In her very energy of attitude, an energy that all unconsciously communicated itself to Kitty, there was the power that belongs to all elemental human emotion—the power that compels. Kitty rose to follow Judith, then hesitated.

"I'm sure nothing has happened him. No, I'm really too unsteady by my fall to walk." She sank again to the boulder on which she had been sitting. To the woman of the world Judith's ingenuous display of feeling had in its very sincerity a something pitiable. How could she strip from her soul every fold of reserve and stand unloved and unadorned, sanctified, as it were, by the very hopelessness of her passion? How could women make of their whole existence a thing to be rejected, reflected, Kitty, who, giving nothing, could not understand? She looked again at the bronzed face before her, so bold in outline, so expressive in detail. Yes, she was beautiful, and yet what had her beauty availed her? The thought that she herself was the preferred woman throbbed through her for a moment with a sense of exaltation.

The next moment a haunting doubt laid hold of her heart, held up mockingly the little that she and Peter had lived through together, the lofty plane of friendship along which she had tried to lead his unwilling feet sedately, his protests, his frank amusement at her serious pretensions to a career. How much fuller might not have been the intercourse between him and this woman, who in all probability had been his comrade for years? And she had been idealizing him and his love for her and his loneliness! Kitty stood with eyes cast down, while images crowded upon her, leaving her cold and smiling.

"But think," pleaded Judith. "If you don't come it will take me longer to search the trail marks. You could show me just where the horses ran!"

Kitty's eyes were still on the ground. She did not lift them, and Judith, realizing that further appeal was but a waste of time, turned and ran swiftly down the trail.

"He is her lover," said Kitty. And all the wilderness before her was no longer than her heart.

Swift, intent, Judith traced Kitty's footprints. They followed the game trail, the one she herself had taken earlier in the day. She traced them back through the pine wood about a hundred rods, and then the trail marks grew confused. This was unquestionably the place where the horses had taken different directions. She traced the other horse, whose tracks led under low hanging boughs. It would have been a difficult matter for a horse with a rider to clear, and now the impression of the horse's shoes grew fainter, from the lighter footfalls of a horse at full gallop.

"Are you hurt?"

"Ah!" A cry broke from her as she saw the marks had become almost eliminated by something that had dragged, something heavy. Those long drawn lines were finger prints, where a hand had dragged in its vain endeavor to grasp at something. A sickening image came persistently before her eyes—Peter's upturned face, blood smeared and disfigured.

"So-sh-sh!" She put her hand to her breast to still the beating of her heart. She could hear the sound of hoofs falling, muffled, on the soft ground and a man's voice speaking in a soothing, soothing tone. It was Peter's voice, reassuring the horse, asking him what kind of a bag of nerves he was for a cow pony to get frightened at a bear? Judith stood tall and straight among the pines. Surely he could not blindly pass her by. He must feel the joy in her heart that all was well with him. The hoofs came nearer; the man's voice sounded but intermittently as he got his horse under better control. She felt as if he must come to her, as if some overpowering consciousness of her presence would speak from her heart to his, but his eyes scanned the distant trail for a glimpse of Kitty, or Kitty's horse.

Judith saw that his head was bound in something white and that it bore a red stain, but he held himself well in the saddle. He was not the man to heed a tumble. He urged the horse forward, never looking toward the tree trunks, his face white and strained with anxiety as he scanned the trail for evidences of Kitty. The horse, with a keener sense than his master, shied slightly as he passed the group of pines where Judith stood, but Peter's glance was for the open trail, and as she heard him canter by, so close that she could have touched his stirrup with her hand, it seemed as if he must hear the beating of her heart.

"Oh, blind eyes, and ears that will not hear, and heart that has forgotten how to beat! Yes, go to that pale, cold girl! You speak one language, and life for you is the way of little things!"

She waited till the last sound of the horse's hoofs had died away and all was still in the tremulous green of the forest. Judith's mind was busy with the image of their meeting, the man bringing the joy of his youth to the calm divinity who could feel no thrill of fear in his absence. She broke into the running gait and hurried through the forest to the Daxes.

CHAPTER XV.

THE beef herd that had been the pivot point of the roundup and had made the mighty plain echo to its stampings and bellows, beating up simooms that choked it with thirst, blinded it with dust, confounding itself on every side by the very fury of its blind force, had trailed for a week, tractable as toys in the hands of children. Little had happened to vary the monotony for the cow punchers that handled the herd. They grazed, guarded, watered, night herded the cattle day after day, night after night. Pastureage had been sufficient if not abundant. The creeks were running low and slimy with the advance of summer, but there had been sufficient water to let the herd drink its fill at least once a day.

The outfit ate its "sow belly," soiled biscuit and coffee three times a day and smoked its pipes, but was a little shy on yards round the campfire.

"This year outfit don't lather none," commented the cook to the horse wrangler over the smoke of an early morning fire.

"Don't lather no more than a chunk of wood," agreed the horse wrangler. "That's the trouble with a picked up outfit like this. Catch W-square men looking to a XXX boss, even if he is only acting foreman."

Simpson, the origin of whose connection with the XXX was rather a sensitive subject with that outfit, had begun to take his duties as a cattleman with grim seriousness. He was untiring in his labors, he spent long hours in the saddle, he took his turn at night herding, though he was old for this kind of work. He condemned the sheepmen with four mottled denunciations, scoffed at their range rights, said the sheep question should be dealt with in the businesslike manner in which the Indian question had been settled.

He was an advocate of violence—in short, a swaggering, bombastic wind-bag. He talked much of "his outfit" and "his men." "What was good enough for them was good enough for him," he would announce at meal-time, in a sniveling tone, when the food happened to be particularly bad. He split the temporary outfit, brought together for the purpose of handling the beef herd, into factions. He put the XXX in worse repute than it already enjoyed—he was, in fact, the discordant spirit of the expedition. The men attended to their work sullenly. Discord was rife. The one thought they shared in common was that of the wages that would come to them at the end of the drive; of the feverish joy of "blowing in," in a single night; perchance of forgetting in one long riotous evening the monotony, the hardship, the lack of comradery that made this particular drive one long to be remembered in the mind of every man who had taken part in it.

Meanwhile the herd trailed its half mile length to the slaughtering pens day after day, all unconscious of its power. When the steers had trailed for about a fortnight the question of finding sufficient winter for them began to be a serious one. The preceding winter had been unusually mild, the snowfall on the mountains averaging less than in the recollection of the oldest plainsman. Summer had begun early and waxed hot and dry. The earth began to wrinkle and cracked into trenches, like gaping mouths, thirsty for the water that came not. Such streams as had not dried shrank and crawled among the willows like slimy things, that the herd, thirsty though it was from the long drives, had to be coaxed to drink from.

Discontent grew. The acting foreman, who was a XXX man and a comparative stranger to that part of the country, refused to consult with the W-square men in the outfit, who knew every inch of the ground. The acting foreman thought the Wetmore men looked down on him, "put on dog," and, to flout his authority, he ordered the herd driven due west instead of skirting to the north by the longer route, where they would have had the advantage of drinking at several creeks before crossing Green river. Moreover, the acting foreman was drinking hard and he insisted upon his order in spite of the Wetmore men's protestations.

The character of the country began to change; the soil took on the color of blood; even the omnipresent sagebrush began to fall the landscape; sun bleached bones glistened on the red soil, white as ulcers; all the animal trails led back from the country into which they were proceeding; the sky, a vivid, cloudless blue, paled as it dipped earthward; there was no sign of life in all the land; even the grasshoppers had left it to the sun, the silence and the desolation. Above the angry howl of the thirsty herd the men strained their ears again and again for this familiar sound of life, but there was nothing but the howling of the cattle, the trampling of their hoofs and sometimes the long, squealing whinny of a horse as he threw back his head in seeming demand to know the justice of this thing.

DEER SEASON OPENS TOMORROW MORNING

Hunters Have Been Going Into the Woods for a Week Past To Be on Hand.

Open season is Nov. 11 to Nov. 30, inclusive.

Cost of license—residents, 1; non-residents, $25.

License must be in possession of hunter.

Two deer may be killed by one person.

Use of dog or dogs is prohibited.

Killing deer in water or on ice is prohibited.

Pitfalls, traps or snares prohibited.

Hunting by artificial light or at night prohibited.

Non-residents may ship two deer out of state.

Residents may ship two deer within state, but none without.

While the game laws of the state of Wisconsin provide for the opening of the deer season on Nov. 10 an explanatory note shows that it is the intent of the law to permit deer hunting only in the last twenty days of November, so that the season does not open until sunrise, Saturday. It is unlawful to kill, according to section 91 of part III, subdivision III, "Any deer between the thirtieth of November and the succeeding tenth day of November of the succeeding year (hereby intending to include in the closed season for hunting deer all the year except the last twenty days of November)."

The conditions are all favorable for the sport this fall, the recent snow which was general throughout the northern part of the state and the upper peninsula of Michigan, being just what the hunters wanted, making it easy to trace the wary animals. A few days ago the snow was rather too deep but it has melted somewhat and reports indicate that it will be just about right tomorrow.

There will be a greater number of hunters in the woods than ever this season, due perhaps to the fact that the absence of snow last fall meant protection for the deer, which should in consequence be more plentiful than for some years. The number of non-resident licenses will be upward of a hundred more than last year. The railroad report that many hunters are going to the Eagle River country and to the vicinity of Minocqua.

STEPS TO CHECK SUICIDE MANIA

Mayor Tom Johnson Appoints Board to Devise Plan of Action.

TELL TROUBLES TO FRIENDS

Commission Will Hear Plaints of Those Who Have Become Weary of Life and Endeavor to Give Encouragement and Aid.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10.—Mayor Tom Johnson, alarmed at the official report that there have been eighty-six suicides in Cleveland in the last nine months, has taken steps to check the carnival of self-destruction.

He has appointed a commission, whose duty it will be to attempt to dissuade would-be suicides from taking their own lives.

The commission is made up of Director of Charities Cooley, W. A. Greenlund, a member of the charity bureau, and State Senator-elect F. C. Howe.

Every man or woman in Cleveland who is contemplating suicide is invited to write a letter to the anti-suicide commission and tell their troubles. The members of the commission will then make an effort to remove the trouble.

For people despondent from non-employment the commission endeavors to obtain employment, while the needs and wants of others seeking aid are looked after. All three men are experienced in such work, and their labors so far have proved satisfactory.

Number of Suicides Appalling.

In discussing the subject further Mr. Cooley said:

"The number of suicides and attempted suicides in Cleveland is appalling. The need of some means to counteract the condition has been felt, and we have expressed our willingness to aid any one who is in the depths of despair and to whom life no longer seems worth living."

"How many suicides would be prevented if the sick, poor and despondent had friends to go to, a place to get relief?"

"Of the eighty-six suicides in the first nine months of this year, the one word, 'despondency' is the keyword of all."

"Hard drinking, lack of work, sickness, domestic trouble, lead men to suicide. Sickness, domestic trouble, lives of shame, drive women to suicide. The records show that the latter cause is more frequent in the case of women."

"Women usually choose to end their lives with carbolic acid, men with pistols or knives." Of the eighty-six suicides sixty-three were men and twenty-three women. Most of these were tired of life, and had one of our commission been able to see them I am sure they would be living today."

"In nearly every case the kind word of a friend or helper will prevent self-destruction. And we are willing—yes, anxious—to extend aid to all disheartened people."

STO. WOMEN, AND CONSIDER ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with woman's diseases covers a great many years.

You can talk freely to a woman when it is revolting to relate your private troubles to a man—besides a man does not understand—simply because he is a man.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation:

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Following we publish two letters from a woman who accepted this invitation. Note the result.

First letter.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham—For eight years I have suffered something terrible every month with my periods. The pains are excruciating and I can hardly stand them. My doctor says I have ovarian and womb trouble, and I must go through an operation if I want to get well. I do not want to submit to it if I can possibly help it. Please tell me what to do. I hope you can relieve me." Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and E. Capitol Sts., Benning P.O., Washington, D.C.

Second letter.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham—After following carefully your advice, and taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very anxious to send you my testimonial that others may know their value and what you have done for me."

"As you know, I wrote you that my doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I then wrote you, telling you my ailments. I followed your advice and am entirely well. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I owe my life to you and to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I wish every suffering woman would read this testimonial and realize the value of writing to you and your remedy." Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 59th and E. Capitol Sts., Benning P.O., Washington, D.C.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women whose testimony is so unquestionable, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

"Modus operandi," literally translated means "way of setting to work." So that the Help Wants come to be to many people a "modus operandi."

WOMEN STRIPPED AND SLAIN

American Missionary Who Escaped

Massacre Describes Cruelty.

Hongkong, Nov. 10.—Dr. Machie, the American missionary who escaped the massacre at Lienchow, stated that when the disturbances commenced the mob seized Miss Chesnut and Mrs. Machie and exposed them to public view in the Chinese temple. Amy Machie, the doctor's 10-year-old child, was carried off and hung alive into the river. The rioters stripped Miss Chesnut naked and flung her into the river. While the two were struggling in the water Chinamen speared them with tridents. Miss Chesnut's body and Amy Machie's head were pierced. Mrs. Machie appealed to the rioters, but the mob stoned her brains out, stripped the body and flung it into the river. The mob, he added, captured Mr. and Mrs. Peale, stripped them naked, exposed them for fifteen minutes, clubbed Mr. Peale to death in his wife's presence, and subsequently killed Mrs. Peale in the same brutal fashion.
